OXFORD SCHOOL OF RARE JEWISH LANGUAGES

Jewish Music Class for Hilary Term 2025

Yiddish Musics: The 20th and 21st Century

Mondays, 18:15-19:15 UK Time, Online via Zoom

Yiddish Musics: The 20th and 21st Century

Tutor: Dr Diana Matut

This course will continue to explore the development of Yiddish musics mainly after Second World War.

The entire spectrum of Yiddish (mainly vocal) music making will be considered and organized according to topics such as: nostalgia, belonging and uprootedness; building the canon of Yiddish song performances; contemporary song cultures and cultural translations; Yiddish film music and music in Yiddish films; Yiddish activism; inner-Hasidic developments (women's, religious and children's songs); new Yiddish opera and theatre song – to name but a few.

This year-long course will also include the possibility for participant observation while exploring strategies of Yiddish song writing and/or song translations from or into Yiddish. It will explore, question and debate the “post” of “post vernacular” and “postmodernity”.

We will also welcome at least one guest per term. Invited are song writers, musicians and Yiddish activists.

Knowledge of Yiddish is helpful, but not required to take this course.

Applications for this class are now closed.

If you have any queries, please contact Ms Priscilla Lange at academic.administrator@ochjs.ac.uk

READING JEWS IN LATE ANTIQUITY

Hilary Term, 4 meetings

Thursdays 14:00 (Weeks 2, 3, 5, 7)  (unless otherwise stated)*

In-person: Catherine Lewis Lecture Theatre, Clarendon Institute, Walton Street, Oxford OX1 2HG and online via Zoom: see link below.

Convenors: Prof. Meron Piotrkowski and Ya'el Nu'emah-Kremer

This course offers a comprehensive exploration of Jews during Late Antiquity, highlighting their multifaceted roles within the broader Mediterranean and Near Eastern worlds. Through a close examination of literary and non-literary sources—such as papyri, inscriptions, and Rabbinic texts—we will investigate key themes in the life of Jews and Jewish communities between the Roman and Sassanian worlds, and under the rule of other religious, legal, and social frameworks.

The four sessions of Hilary Term will focus on the following topics:

Week 2, 30 January: Jewish Women and Communal Roles

Week 3, 6 February: The Emperor and the Jews: Between Fact and Fiction

Week 5, 20 February: Late Roman Law Codices and the Jews (This session will take place from 1pm to 2pm)

Week 7, 6 March: Violence Against Jews and Jewish Violence (led by Dr. Osnat E. Rance)

In order to attend this reading group via Zoom, please register here:

For more information and to register, please contact Ya'el Nu'emah-Kremer through yael.kremer@ames.ox.ac.uk

MEDIEVAL HEBREW READING GROUP

Weeks 1-4, 6-8
Thursdays 10:00-11:00 am

In-person: Catherine Lewis Lecture Theatre, Clarendon Institute, Walton Street, Oxford OX1 2HG and online via Zoom: see link below.

Convenors: Judith Olszowy-Schlanger and Joseph O'Hara

This reading group is an opportunity to practise reading directly from images of medieval Hebrew manuscripts in an informal setting. No advance preparation is required and all skill levels are welcome!

This year we will look at documents and manuscript excerpts from a broad range of the many genres found in medieval Hebrew texts, including scientific, literary, and legal. We will consider their palaeography, language, and historical context, and learn practical skills for reading unfamiliar handwriting, dealing with damaged texts, and interpreting dates and unusual vocabulary.

There will be coffee, tea and cake from 11am in the Common Room of the Oxford Centre for Hebrew and Jewish Studies for those attending in person.

Please note that in Week 5 the Medieval Hebrew Reading Group will join the Medieval Anglo-Jewish Texts and History seminar (please see further information below); this will not be available for online participants.

For further information about this reading group or for any other queries, please email Dr Joseph O'Hara at joseph.ohara@ccc.ox.ac.uk.

In order to attend this reading group via Zoom, please register here:
